DANIELS' ULTIMATUM.

He Will Leave the Pop Party Unless It Adopts His Hobby.

Lieutenant Governor Percy Daniels is very much disgruntled, and he is wavering in his loyalty to the Populists.

Daniels has a hobby, which he has invited the People's party to ride, and they seem reluctant about accepting the invitation. He is in favor of a graduated property tax, and prepared a bill and sent it to the Populist congressmen to be introduced. They refused to present it, and then Daniel turned his attention to the state canvass and now demands a plank in the state platform covering his position. If the convention refuses to adopt such a plank he will not be a candidate for renomination and will consider himself out of the party. He has pamphlets printed explaining his position, and one of these will be sent to each delegate to the state convention.

Mr. Daniels has had the following statement prepared for publication:

Lieutenant Governor Daniels has issued a pamphlet called "A Sunflower Tangle," discussing the question of the graduated taxation of property. In this book, after showing the necessity for such a measure, the right to impose it and the justice of it, he protests against the action of part of the Populist delegation in congress and appeals from that ruling to the higher court of the state convention and says unless their ruling is reversed it leaves him no alternative but to accept it as a notice of excommunication from the party.

Chairman Bridenthal of the Populist state central committee said in reply to questions about Daniels' action:

"It is a very frank statement, I must say. I understand from what Mr. Daniels says that he will not be a candidate unless the state convention adopts the plank he suggests and of course he has that right. I do not know of any candidates against him."

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

NICK CHILDS, S. K.

Nick Has Trouble About an Odorizer—Other Police Court Cases.

"Nick Childs, S. K.," was in the police court yesterday charged with disturbing the peace of William Ream, the agent of a patent "odorizer." There was speculation as to what the S. K. stood for. Some said it signified "Shawnee king," others "seven kegs," and some thought it meant "shoot krap," but it was finally discovered that the S. K. was in the column headed "occupation," and the initials signify saloon keepers. If the police can prove that this is true, their indictment stands good; if they can't prove it the insinuating initials should be changed.

Agent Ream went to Nick Childs' club in the basement at 704 Kansas avenue and sold him one of his odorizers that was warranted to disinfect the place and overcome the stale beer smell with a strong tar and peppermint odor. The machine, a pretty, polished-copper affair was nailed up where it would do the most good. Nick paid a dollar in advance for the use of it a month.

The machine didn't work. The billy-goat odor around the place was just as loud as ever. So last week the big colored man who can't hear very well and manipulates the faucet and also glares at everybody who enters like a bull-dog, took the machine down. Nick thought it had gone dry and summoned the agent, who went there Saturday. Nick said he didn't want the machine and asked for fifty cents "rebate." Ream put the odorizer in his satchel and told Nick it would be a cold day when he got a red cent back. Nick called Ream a bad name and is said to have made a faint at drawing a revolver. Ream also made a bluff at getting a deadly weapon out of his valise (probably one of the odorizers). Then blows were exchanged, and Nick hit the agent over the head with a chair. The force of the blow was broken by Ream's arm. As there were about a dozen colored men in the club at the time, the agent concluded that he was outnumbered, so he retreated up the rickety stairs, three steps at a time.

Nick's arrest was the result of the affair, and this is the story of it as near as it could be gathered from two conflicting stories at the police court. Nick said he wasn't guilty, but Judge Ensinger said he was, and fined him $5. Rather than pay this, Childs appealed the case to the district court and gave bond in the sum of $100.

Worship Under Difficulties.

One of the churches in Tennessee town is greatly annoyed by bad boys in the neighborhood, to such an extent that the services often break up in confusion. On the night of Decoration day there was a service at the church, and all was as quiet as the tomb while the elder was reading a psalm, when suddenly a series of noises, weird cries and loud yells were heard.

They seemed to issue from the vestibule. The deacons and trustees ran out in time to see Bill Knight, Pete Jones and Si Willis run up the street. The witnesses in the case failed to agree on what the noise sounded like. "I thought there was a fire," one man said; "I allowed that somebody was in trouble," said another; "I ran out supposing there was a fight."

A colored special policeman named Bill Spanning was standing by the corner and positively identified the colored boys. They didn't see him.

"Dey went this way," said Spanning, walking up in front of the judge's desk; "Wow! Wow! Hi, Hi, Hi! Where's de policeman? Dere none no cop take me! Wow, Wow, Wow!" and as he said all this at the top of his voice he stamped on the floor and waved his hands, and the result was convulsing to the crowd.

When Jones was put on the stand he was asked, "What did you 'holer' for?" "Because it was a hollerday," was the reply.

Jones didn't mean to make a pun, but even Judge Ensinger held the court record up in front of his face and laughed. The boys then explained that they had a dog-fight on the next corner and it was probably the dogs that annoyed the deacons and trustees.

This story didn't satisfy the court however, and he fined Jones and Willis $10 each and continued the case of Willis.

A NEW AGITATOR.

"If Thy Brother Hungers for Bread Give Him the Bible."

The announcement that Mrs. Maybree of this city would speak at the city park Sunday afternoon did not create a decided sensation, and not more than fifty people were there to hear her, and these were for the most part migratory.

Mrs. Maybree is a woman of perhaps fifty years, and divides her sympathy about equally between the rich and the poor. She is sure that a terrible condition exists today among the working men of this country, and that the rich are equally unhappy. The Lord is going to take a hand soon, however, and in fulfillment of his bible promise to the rich, "Your clothes shall be moth-eaten and your gold and silver eaten with rust," will change this around to the satisfaction of all if the poor man will only have faith in Him. She does not explain, however, how the poor man is going to live until the change takes effect. Mrs. Maybree spoke again last night at Trades' Assembly hall.
